REEVOO SENIOR MANAGEMENT APPOINTMENT

Reevo, the UK's leading independent publisher of genuine customer reviews, today announces the appointment of Charles Delamain as Commercial Director. Charles joins Reevo from Orange, where he was Director of Partner Solutions. He will be responsible for establishing retail partnerships in new sectors, accelerating consumer adoption of the Reevo service and developing the network to provide high quality traffic to retail partners.

Announcing Charles' appointment, Richard Anson, CEO and Founder of Reevo said: "We are delighted to have Charles on board. He brings exceptional business development experience, which will be an invaluable asset in our mission to be the world's most trusted brand for helping people choose what to buy. His expertise in the mobile commerce markets will be an enormous asset, particularly as we explore the potential for rolling out mobile services to our retail partners in coming years."

As Director of Partner Solutions at Orange Charles was responsible for leveraging web and WAP portals to build partnerships with leading European organisations in the e-commerce, personal finance and gambling sectors. Charles previously served as Director of the Commercial Department at Interactive Investor International.

Charles Delamain said: "I am thrilled to be joining Reevo at such an interesting time. With shoppers increasingly looking for independent opinions and reliable advice when shopping online, Reevo is well positioned to help retail partners increase conversion rates by empowering consumers. I'm especially looking forward to expanding the service into new European territories and integrating new convenient tools into the Reevo offering."

Reevo customer opinions on over ten thousand products have been displayed by retail partners more than 12 million times in the last month alone.

UK e-tailers that already partner with Reevoo include Dixons, Currys, Woolworths, The Carphone Warehouse and Comet. Visitors to these retailers' sites will find genuine and impartial reviews that will provide useful guidance as part of the decision making process. Reevoo also runs a customer review portal, www.reevoo.com.
